'ROUND 'N' 'ROUND

This is the season of colds, financial worries and new calendars.

* * * *

The first one appeared at our door step yesterday morning. It's one of these combined almanacs-calendars—what to do until the doctor comes affairs.

* * * *

One of the most depressive we've ever seen was issued last year.

* * * *

It was filled with Bibical quotations but the pictures were ole-margerine prints by some German "artist" with a flare for lurid colors.

* * * *

One look at the calendar and an artistic friend had indigestion for two weeks.

* * * *

Haven't seen any of these "I ain't mad at nobody" calendars so far this season.

* * * *

There is one weekly magagine we purchase each year as it gives the complete calendar for the year on the cover. Outside of that the entire rag can be consumed to the wastepaper basket.

* * * *

Today is the shortest day of the year—in more ways than one.

* * * *

A most amusing story appeared in a certain large circulation magazine the other day.

* * * *

And this story carried a moral, that none can or should miss.

* * * *

* * * *

With prices at rock bottom and with a half a million of dollars in the bank, he plans on putting his money in a safe deposit box until good times come.

* * * *

About this time a certain professor appears and tells the world that he can make gold. Immediately hundreds of persons invest their money witth him. They want to have some of the manufactured gold. It's a sure thing.

* * * *

At the end of the depression it is found that the professor has made gold—but not through chemistry.

* * * *

He has rounded up real estate, rubber, stocks and other articles at rock bottom prices during the depression. And when the rise comes, he's "sitting pretty."

* * * *

He sells all of his holdings at "good times" prices, receiving two and three times as much as he paid for them. With this money he pays every person who invested in his "gold manufacturing company" and gives them 100 percent profit.

* * * *

And when this is finished, he still has a few million dollars for himself.

ACCOUNTS STUDIED IN CASHIER SUICIDE

OAKLEY BANK MAN HANGS SELF

OAKLEY, Dec. 20. — With the suicide of Paul Anderson, cashier of the Bank of Oakley, following his re-appearance here last night after wandering a little way for more than 12 hours, bank officials were convinced that the books of the institution of which the dead man was an officer were in a muddled condition, authorities said.

The body of Anderson was found in the shed at the rear of his home this morning with an electric light wire bound about his neck. Alexander Anderson of Stockton, brother of the dead man made the discovery when he went to look for him after finding his bed vacant.

In the pocket of the man's night clothing was found this note:

Note Found

"For the best of all. God forgive me. Florence and Velma are in no way involved in the affairs of the bank."

Florence is Anderson's wife and Velma is Miss Velma Cecchini, an employe of the bank.

Anderson was returned to his home last night after being found by Clyde Mooers, a druggist after wandering in the neighborhood of Brentwood when a search was instituted for him after his automobile was found in a damaged condition near the highway here.

Lost Nerve

At the Brentwood Hospital, where Anderson was taken he pulled out a revolver and attempted to end his life, it was said. It was believed that Anderson left home Thursday with the intention of committing suicide, but lost his nerve. He then was believed to have intended killing himself by running his automobile off a platform.

A will was found at the Anderson home, which apparently had been made out by the man ebofre he left on his first trip. The vault of the bank was drilled open this morning under the supervision of state bank examiners in an effort to get at the books of the concern.

J. H. Shaw, president of the bank was located at Fullerton and was on his way north to aid state officials in their investigation of the business.

Anderson held the bulk of the bank's stock, a typewritten statement uncovered in the vault indicated. He had been associated with the business for 15 years, having first gone into the work with the late O. M. Chaplin.

The body is at the Schafer funeral parlors at Brentwood pending funeral arrangements. Meantime the bank has been closed. It was expected that two or three days would be necessary before the full account of the bank could be determined.

Oakland Man Shot In Daylight Robbery

OAKLAND, Dec. 20.—In view of shoppers, an Oakland merchant was probably fatally wounded this morning when two men attempted to rob him of $2500 he was carrying to his place of business.

R. A. Frey, 54, was at an Oakland hospital tonight with little chance for his recovery as doctors found that bullet fired by one of the bandits had entered his shoulder and coursed downward through the lung and ended in his spinal column. Frey was paralyzed from the chest down.

The holdup occurred in front of a real estate office at 390 Twelfth street as Frey was returning to his restaurant at 268 Twelfth street with money secured from the bank with which he used to cash checks of employes in the neighborhood.

A roadster sped around the corner as two men jumped out and without warning ran to Frey and beat him over the head with blackjacks until he fell to his knees. He was unable to get a pistol he was carrying in a satchel out to defend himself.

Suddenly the taller of the pair stepped back and without further warning fired point blank at Frey. William Tamm, a clerk in Frey's place heard the shot and ran to his employer's side.

The two men jumped in the automobile and sped around Twelfth street where they narrowly missed a taxi-cab. The number of the bandit car was obtained, and police had a good description of the pair. The bandit pair got none of the mony their intended victim was carrying.

FIRM TO BE REORGANIZED UNDER PLAN

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 20.—UP—A federal receiver in equity was ordered today by Federal Judge George T. Cosgrave for the Guaranty Building and Loan association, which closed last week after an $8,000,000 defalcation by its general manager, Gilbert H. Beesemyer.

The jurist ruled that and advisory committee of nine outstanding business men would be appointed to aid the receiver. Judge Cosgrave's decision settled a five-cornered federal court battle for the management of the Guaranty's affairs.

Against the receivership in equity the other factions sought a receiver in bankruptcy, no receiver for the time being, no federal intervention and no receiver in bankruptcy.

Agreement Made

It was stated that the disrupting factions finally had agreed that the receivership in equity was favorable to them.

Under the receivership in equity the association will be reorganized. A federal receivership in

CAPONE AIDE GIVEN 'RAP'

CHICAGO, Dec. 20.—UP—Frank Nitti, cousin and right hand man of "Scarface" Al Capone, appeared voluntarily in federal court today and pleaded guilty to charges of evading payment of income tax on $842,887.81 of his underworld profits. Judge Charles E. Woodward sentenced him to 18 months in prinson and fined him $10,000.

Nitti was driven to the unusual spectacle of a gangster pleading guilty without a trial by "Scarface" Al, according to reports in the underworld.

He had wanted to flee to Italy with his liquor profits, it was reported, but was ordered by Capone to surrender, plead guilty and take his punishment in order to lessen the pressure the government has put on gangsters and racketeers by a drive to hit where it hurts worst—in the pocketbook.

Nitti, who is called "the enforcer" for Capone, because he is credited with selecting the victims for the gang's machine gunners, was the third Capone "big shot" to feel the force of the government's offensive against underworld profits.

2000 Kiddies Enjoy Big Theater Party

Christmas in all of its various meanings was demonstrated to more than 2000 Richmond children yesterday when they gathered at the Fox - California Theater as guests of the Richmond Merchants association and the showhouse in the annual Yule party given for the younger generation.

Santa Claus with his bag of toys, candy and trinkets was present to received an uproarious greeting from the children all of whom were bubbling over with enthusiasm because of the old man's presence.

The children sang and laughed, and enjoyed themselves in ways that only tots less than 12 years of age can.

One of the attractions was the finding of Mayor A. B. Hinkley's silk hat under a seat in the theater. The hat stolen when Santa Claus was officially welcomed to town last Saturday had been missing since that time, and a dollar was offered as a reward to the boy or girl who should find it.

By a trick of magic it was learned that the hat would be found under one of the theater seats and a hunt was started by the children. The finder received his dollar before the hat was released.

Lud Johnson was leader of the singing and had little trouble in getting the desired response from his audience. Mrs. Helen Goldsworthy at the organ provided music for the singers.

The Richmond Merchants association provided the candy while the California Theater presented the toys to the guests. The Boy Scouts were present to aid in the seating of the children, and the Richmond fire and police department representatives were there in their official capacities as protectors of the tots.

Next year a similar party is expected to be staged, and already there were many children preparing for that day.

NEVADA TEAM IS WITHOUT LEADER

RENO, Nev., Dec. 20.—UP—The Nevada "Wolfpack" was still without a leader today despite a heated two-hour debate yesterday by the student body over what to do about "Foxy" Philbrook, silver gridiron mentor for the past two seasons.

The net result of the argument which at times reached high tempo, was to refer the matter back to the athletic committee for further consideration. The committee had already offered Philbrook the alternative of a one-year contract at the same salary —$3600—of the acceptance of his resignation. Philbrook resigned, claiming that his qualities as a coach could not be proved in less than two years.

Yesterday's meeting was to decide whether the student body should overrule the committee or accept its decision.

The "debate" reached its highest pitch when Philbrook's backers claimed the gridiron coach was being "railroaded" out of Nevada.

Bedlam broke loose when the faction alligned against "Foxy" retaliated with the charge that men from outside the state were discriminated against. Speakers jumped to their feet—several at a time—without attempting to gain recognition from Jack Walters, student body "prexy."

As the dark cloud of a "free for all" began to loom over the undergraduate horizon, leaders of both sides, in the interest of avoiding posisble casualties, agreed that the matter should be returned to the athletic committee for reconsideration.

That committee, the same that dismissed "Foxy" earlier in the week, will stand firm on its decision, it was believed.

Philbrook, evidently feeling the same way, has announced he has an offer from the Multnomah Athletic club at Portland, Ore., at an increase of $400.

Civil War Vet Is Freed Of Dry Law Charges

SAN JOSE, Dec. 20.—UP—An injunction to prevent San Jose police from molesting Alfred Metzler, 83, Civil War veteran freed yesterday on charges of selling beer, may be sought by Ben Peckham, noted criminal attorney who successfully defended Metzler, it was intimated today.

Metzler was acquitted by a jury yesterday after the court session was marked by charges of a frame-up by the police and prohibition department.

Peckham, one of the state's most famous criminal lawyers, who defended "Doc" De Moss and other asserted members of the Jake Fleagle gang accused of robbery of the Tracy post office, accused Chief of Police Jack Black, Detective O. D. McClimon, and undercover agent Fay Ewalt, of framing the aged veteran.

Peckham asserted his client was making beer for his own consumption, and that Ewalt stole the beer and placed marked money in Metzler's pocket.

A high point of the trial was when Peckham slipped a dollar into the pocket of Assistant District Attorney A. P. Lindsay, without the latter's knowledge, and then pointed out to the jury "how easily an old man like Metzler could be trapped with the same trick, if an attorney could."

"I have more respect for the uniform in which Metzler fought for liberty, than for all the gold braid and stars of the peace time uniforms of the police," Peckham shouted, as the trial reached its climax.

The jury was out only a short time before freeing the defendant, but the latter appealed to Peckham today for aid, stating that he feared the police would "hound him" continually.

Cougars Start South For Rose Bowl Contest

PORTLAND, Ore., Dec. 20.—UP—The Washington State College Cougars were en route tonight to California to wind up their training for the New Year's day football game with Alabama in the Rose Bowl, Pasadena.

In this particular instance the biological terms is not exactly amiss for on the train with the rest of the Cougars is a real one. His name is "Butch Meeker," and he weighs close to 200 pounds. In fact "Butch" is a lot bigger than his namesake. A few years ago Washington State had a dynamite little quarterback named "Butch" Meeker who weighed about 140 pounds. About that time some collegiate "Huskies" at University of Washington stole the stuffed cougar which has mascoted W. S. C. teams and somewhere the Pullmanites acquired a cute little cougar kitten, about a foot long and weighing about ten pounds. It was so small, but was also so full of fight, that immediately it was named "Butch Meeker."

Sure now Coach Babe Hollingbery is taking the real cougar along, not that he expects to need him in the game.

The biped Cougars are all in good condition. Mel Hein, the All-American center, and Big Turk Edwards the giant tackle, have recovered from injuries and the entire team is ready for the fray.

The Cougars will work out against Coach Percy Locey's all-West all-stars at San Francisco Monday.

Blast Sinks Pleasure Ship

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 20.—UP—An explosion caused by a defective ships lantern, sank the 65 foot motor vessel Bimini in the harbor here today. Two members of the crew were injured.

Jefferson Pinder, 66, Negro fisherman, and Cethes Davis, Negro deckhand, were injured, not critically.

Joe Bean, mate of the Bimini noticed the defective lantern as he prepared to sail early today. He ordered Davis to hurl it overboard. The lantern exploded before Davis could get it over the side. A series of explosions, caused by gas fumes in the bilges, followed. A final explosion, after the crew had abandoned the ship blew out the sides of the vessel and it sank in flames before fire department units could reach it.

Norris In Attavk On Republicans

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20.—UP—Senator George W. Norris, veteran fighting Nebraskan, denounced today as "disreputable, dishonorable and damnable," the methods used by the Republican national committee in its futile attempt to defeat him in his re-election campaign.

In a fiery address which brought crowds to the senate galleries late in the day, Norris defended his leadership of western progressives and said he expected to show later that "some of the high Republican officials with national reputations" were guilty of perjury in their testimony before the Nye campaign investigating committee.

EAST IS GIVEN EDGE IN GRID CONTEST

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 20.—UP—The annual Shrine East versus West charity football game at Kezar stadium next Saturday will look like a contest between two all - American outfits more than ever before, it appeared today.

Coaches Dick Hanley and Andy Kerr arrived with their East squad yesterday, and the 10 men mentioned in Grantland Rice's all-American selections, and the 12 captains of eastern college teams were greeted and wished the best of luck by Governor-Elect James Rolph Jr. San Francisco's present mayor.

Eleven of Rice's all-American's will oppose them next Saturday, and nine college captains, so there should be little to choose between the two teams on that score.

Eastern players who will see action at Kezar stadium and who placed on Rice's all-American or received honorable mention, are: Macaluso, Colgate; Siano, Fordham; Woodworth, Northwestern; Linehan, Yale; Lubratovich, Wisconsin; Van Bibber, Purdue; F. Baker, Northwestern; Eddie Baker, Pittsburgh; Les Hart, Colgate and Jack Wheeler, Michigan.

Against this array of talent, the western coaches, Percy Locey of the Olympic Club and Dana Bible of Nebraska, will send the following all-American players: Beckett, California; Koch, Baylor; Atkins, Texas Christian; Greenburg, Nebraska; Christensen, Oregon; Ebding, St. Mary's; Long, Southern Methodist; Bausch, Kansas; Kitzmiller, Oregon; Shelley, Texas and Wilson of Baylor.

For theoretical perfection, there seems little to choose between the two squads, but as a matter of fact the East outfit appears actually the stronger and more versatile, and is already conceded a slight edge to take a third straight victory in the classic.

The Eastern backfield combination of Baker, Bruder, Hart and Macaluso will be hard to beat. "Iron Legs" Macaluso, Colgate's plunging fullback and champion scorer of the country, is counted upon to make things unpleasant for the West. Baker is a fine kicker and passer and one of the best field generals. Hart and Bruder are both dangerous.

The Eastern line, veterans all, and outweighing the West eight pounds on the average, may be the determining factor in the contest. The West has been weak in the line all season. However, strength in the end positions, with Louis Long, S. M., and Bill McKalip, Oregon, both notable pass receivers, may produce an aerial game that Coach Hanley favors and that may bring many a gain.

The Western backfield will probably be composed of Johnny Kitzmiller, Oregon's driving Dutchman; Jim Lynch of Kansas, "Little Jack" Wilson, 145 pound Baylor quarterback and Dexter Shelly, Texas.

The speedy Kitzmiller may prove elusive in the open field, Wilson can heave passes unerringly, Bausch tears holes in the line and Shelly is known as some blocker, but they'll all have to be at peak if the Eastern all-star aggregation is to be stopped.

High School Claims Title For Football

HAVERHILL, Mass., Dec. 20.—UP—In the wake of All-America selections and other football season postludes, the St. James' high school eleven of this city claims the national high school gridiron title.

Not only did St. James negotiate a difficult 1930 schedule without a defeat or a tie, but the school boasts a clean slate dating back to 1926, and during those four years it has been tied but once.

For the past 11 years, St. James has a victory percentage of .944 and during that period has amassed 2,189 points to only 203 for its opponents.

The most decisive victory this season was scored when St. James defeated Littleton high school, 99 to 0.

St. James' student body numbers only about 400.

LLOYD COMEDY COMING TO THE FOX

Although most great comedians are said to have a secret ambition to one day appear in a momentously tragic role in heavy drama, this is not the case with Harold Lloyd, the youth who made ordinary spectacles his trademark for fun on the screen.

Lloyd recently told an interviewer that tragedy could never be down his alley and that he would never appear in a "heavy" role.

Reason is that he loves to do comedy-thrill pictures and never had a yen for the "deep stuff."

But he hastened to reassure the questioner that comedy, however blythesome and frothy, nevertheless has a mission in the scheme of human progress. Comedy serves a high purpose, he thinks.

"Comedy is positive and tragedy is negative to my way of thinking," volunteered Lloyd. "What does one gain by shedding tears over the demise of Desdemona? But comedy on the other hand—well, there's much truth in that old saw about 'laugh and be healthy.' I believe in it implicitly."

For more than a decade Harold Lloyd has been making successful comedies. Among his greatest hits are "Grandma's Boy," "Speedy," "The Freshman," "Safety Last" and "Welcome Danger." The last-named was his first talkie.

He is scheduled to appear in his second talkie, "Feet First," at the Fox-California theater tomorrow and Tuesday.

"Feet First" reveals the refreshing Harold in a new role. This time he is an ambitious young clerk in one of a big chain of shoe stores.

Seattle Hill Leveled For Building Site

SEATTLE, Wash., Dec. 20.—UP—Denny hill, once a good sized mound in the heart of Seattle, has been dropped to the bottom of Elliott bay.

Work of leveling the hill, dumping its earth into a belt conveyor, then hauling it to the bay on barges, has been completed and the new area will soon be ready to receive the first of new buildings that will make it Seattle's outstanding business section.

The regrade project required more than a year and a half's work, at a cost of more than $2,000,000. Seattle sacrificed its oldest school house, a public park and a Catholic church to make way for the regrade, and more than 4,350,000 cubic yards of earth was removed. Numerous early houses were torn down or removed from the hill before the work was started.

Wide paved streets and sidewalks have already been installed in most of the district and underground electric light and power conduits, to provide for a business section's demands 50 years from now, crisscross the project.

A building concern has announced plans for spending more than $15,000,000 for structures in the district.

GOOD NEWS IS COMING TO FOX TODAY

"Good News" which will open today at the Fox-California Theater, was produced by Metro Goldwyn Mayer under direction of Edgar MacGregor and Nick Grinde with Bessie Love in the featured role.

This is a production of unusual interest because it brings to the screen the famous Broadway success by Lawrence Schwab and B. G. DeSylva intact with many of the original cast appearing in supporting roles.

Edgar MacGregor, who co-directed, produced the original stage presentation, as well as many other New York hits, including the recent "Desert Song," "New Moon" and "Follow Thru." Nick Grinde last was co-director of "The Bishop Murder Case" and has several M-G-M talkie short subjects to his directional credit.

This is Bessie Love's first 100 percent musical comedy portrayal. She is paired with Gus Shy, the well known stage comedian, who repeats the role he made famous on the stage. Bessie sings and dances inseveral novel numbers and gives a performance replete with comedy material.

The supporting cast includes Dorothy McNulty, Mary Lawlor and Billy Taft, who also were in the stage version of the collegiate musical hit. Miss Lawlor again appearing in the ingenue lead, Miss McNulty featuring the Varsity Drag numbers and Taft playing the freshman part.

Stanley Smith, one of the talking screen's newest singing juveniles, is teamed with Miss Lawlor in carrying the romantic interest. He last played in 'Sophomore' and 'Sweetie,' in which he won outstanding recognition.

Steam Cooling For British Planes

LONDON, Dec. 20.—UP—Aircraft, equipped with a complete system of steam-cooling for the engine, has successfully passed secret flying tests at an aerodrome near London according to British aviation experts.

These tests may bring about a sweeping change in both commercial and military aviation.

The trials included, in addition to the usual speed and climb to great heights, elaborate aerobatic tests.

Water-cooled aero engines have encountered criticism because of the weight of water carried and the possible vulnerability of a water system with pipes and a large radiator in air fighting.

In case the water-cooling system, now almost universally used, is damaged a rapid loss of water takes place thus depriving the airplane of practically all its motive power.

Another advantage credited to steam-cooling is that the usual large water-radiator is eliminated and the resistance to movement through the air is correspondingly reduced.

$39,400 Liberty Bonds Bought By Army, Undelivered

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20.—UP—Thousands of dollars worth of Liberty bonds are held by the War Department awaiting the claim of soldiers who bought but did not collect them during the World War.

This was revealed in the annual report of Maj.-Gen. Roderick L. Carmichael to Secretary of War Hurley.

"Of the total of approximately $60,000,000 of Liberty Bonds purchased by the Army through the allotment system during the war there remains on hand yet undelivered a total of $39,400" the report said.

"As practically every means of locating the allottees have been exhausted, these bonds are now held awaiting any claims that may be received."

That portion of the report dealing with the army's financial status said virtually all bills more than 30 days old had been paid.

Savant Will Spend Life On Native Island

CHICAGO, Dec. 20.—UP—One of the world's most isolated cultures is found among a people who have no conception of a Supreme Being, no idea of a life after death, and who govern themselves by nothing more stringent than a code of ethics based upon public opinion as it is manifest among themselves.

These people are natives of the Nicobar Islands, a group of small islands in the Bay of Bengal and the Andaman islands. A small but interesting ethnological collection representing them is on exhibition in the department of anthropology at Field Museum of Natural History.

Anthropologists are interested by the fact that although the Nicobar Islands are only 80 miles from the Andaman Islands where the natives are negroid, the Nicobars have none of the Andaman characteristics. Instead of being small, black-skinned, kinky-haired and living on a low scale, the bulk of the Nicobar population are brown lank haired, of fair stature, and semi-civilized. They live in good houses, cultivate food plants and possess domesticated animals.

Field museum curators point to their circular communal houses as a primitive form of socialism. They have few weapons and are not warlike.

Although they have no conception of a Supreme Being they have a strong fear of evil spirits which are regarded in part as being ghosts of the wicked. These they believe may be appeased by offerings and kept away by exorcisms.

The Nicobars have no regular places of worship, but they have priest-doctors supposed to have power to communicate with the spirits and by ceremonials prevent them from doing evils.

Marriage among the Nicobars is apt to be of rather transitory nature and most adults make numerous alliances.

Plane Theft To Come Before U. S. Supreme Court

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20.—UP—The airplane, after invading almost every spot on the globe, now promises to find its way into the United States supreme court.

For the first time since the most modern of transportation methods has come into vogue that body has been asked to pass on a question involving it.

The court is asked to decide whether the Dyer automobile theft act, passed to give the federal government a means of dealing with the automobile thief, then one of the leading forms of "racketeering," applies to stolen planes. The question is raised by William W. McBoyle, airport owner of Galena, Ill., who was sentenced to three years in prison for allegedly participating in the transportation of a stolen plane.

McBoyle declares the Dyer act, defining motor vehicles as "an automobile, truck, wagon, motorcycle or any other self propelled vehicle not designed for running on rails" does not cover planes. He points out that there is no reference to any form of air traversing machine in the act.

The Dyer law prohibits as a federal offense, the transportation of a stolen motor vehicle from one state to another.

McBoyle was convicted in Oklahoma of having aided A. J. Lacye, a pilot in his employ, in removing the plane, stolen from Ottawa, Ill., to Galena and later to Guymon, Okla. Lacye, who pleaded guilty to the charge and was sentenced to serve a year in prison, was the chief witness against McBoyle.

DEATH ATTEMPT AIDS JAPAN DEMOCRACY

NEW YIRK, Dec. 20.—UP—The progress of constitutional democracy in Japan has acquired additional power through the widespread public outcry against the attempt to assassinate Premier Hamaguchi.

His reputation has acquired added prestige, giving further impetus to the movement for making the parliamentary power of the Japanese government supreme over the army and navy cliques.

The old Samurai spirit of Japan, to which the country owes so much has always had difficulty adjusting itself to the requirements of modern democracy.

Samurai Warlike

The Samurai who remained in the army and navy have thought predominately in terms of weapons of war. They have forgotten that in new Japan.

Samurai idealism also prevails in other departments of the government; and international relations require civilian control over a nation's destinies more than military and naval control.

Premier Hamaguchi is the first head of a Japanese ministry to make this viewpoint prevail against consolidated opposition.

His opponents ranged themselves behind the Privy Council in an attempt to defeat the ratification of the London Conference's naval treaty. The Privy Council was compelled to bow to Hamaguchi, and democracy emerged triumphant.

Hamaguchi Aided

In gaining this victory, Hamaguchi was powerfully supported by Baron Shidehara, foreign minister and formerly Japanese ambassador to America. The leading newspapers of Japan also helped him and in doing so reflected Japanese public opinion.

The assassin's bullet directed against Hamaguchi, therefore, was in effect directed against new Japan and against the overwhelming public support which has permitted Hamaguchi to work in furthering democracy's progress.

The fanatical spirit which was so much identified with the Samurai in the past, has been very largely overcome in Japan, but it still exists in spots. To destroy the Samurai sense of discipline would be to destroy Japan; but, there is no danger of that happening.

Hamaguchi has shown that discipline can be reconciled with progress and this is the spirit of modern democracy as it is being evolved in Japan.

MODEL ARMY IS WRECKED BY DOPE

PEIPING, Dec. 20. —UP— The "model army" of Shansi has been completely disrupted by the opium habit, according to a foreign missionary at Tsangchow, Hopei.

For 14 years after the overthrow of the Manchus, General Yen Hsishan, "president of North China," confined his attention to his native province of Shansi, and admittedly did a better job than any other provincial ruler.

But General Yen was dragged into the country's civil wars in 1926, and the deterioration of Shansi began.

The Shansi armies, after some success in Shantung province, crumbled before Nanking's attack, and fell back north of the Yellow river.

The missionary who has observed the troop movements, reported that the use of opium is one of the chief factors demoralization.

"Doped cigarettes are used on an extensive scale," he wrote, "and the sale of drugs and the powerful narcotic known everywhere as 'white powder,' has reached astonishing proporitions. The authorities are powerless, or unwilling, to interfere with a trade enormously lucrative for all concerned."

The fact that some of the army officers are engaging in opium traffic has been confirmed by several foreign observers. Opium grown in the Suiyuan district, under Shansi's control, is escorted to Peiping and Tientsin by Shansi troops. The line of march from Suiyuan is guarded by Shansi soldiers to protect opium shipments from bandits in Inner Mongolia.

Opium is the chief source of revenue for many independent generals now operating in China, and armies in Yunnan, Szechwan, Shansi and Kwangsi are maintained to a large extent by the growth and sale of opium. Military movements often may be explained by the desire to escort large opium shipments to cities where it can be sold.

Reducing Farm Acres Favored Relief Scheme

VISALIA, Dec. 20.—The way for California's fruit growers to make a success of their business is for some of them to go out of business That, according to Harry R. Mehrten of the Tulare County Farm bureau, is the conclusion reached by the California Agriculture Extension service after a four-year study and analysis of the situation.

The way it will be brought about if the extension service plans are carried out will be for each fruit industry to tax its members heavily enough to pay the poorer producers to uproot their vines or trees.

Mehrten cited specifically the California peach growers and their problems.

This last season the peach men produced about 100,000 tons too many of peaches, with the result that peaches for canning sold at $20 a ton. The investigators said that a detailed analysis of the operations of 439 peach orchards showed it cost an average of $26.56 a ton to produce the peaches and get them to the cannery.

The four-year study showed, Mehrten said, that the average cost did not represent the individual costs. High quality fruit combined with large production was the key to profit. Those who produced under five tons of fresh fruit to the acre were the big losers. The producers of seven to eight tons of good peaches broke about even.

Now the plan is to reduce the acreage of poor producers until 100,000 tons production are off the market.

The plan would be for the growers operating under a federal farm board supported stabilization organization to form a single organization that could maintain a firm price for its fruit. Each grower would be taxed $3 a ton from his revenue to pay the producers of poor trees to uproot their orchards.

HIKES FAVORED BY TEACHERS IN SURVEY

EUGENE, Ore., Dec. 20.—Sports from hiking to aviation claim admirers and devotees in the ranks of the modern college professor today, it was brought out by a survey at the University of Oregon which recently was completed. The survey disclosed that hiking was the most popular form of recreation, with automobiling as the next ranking form of amusement.

One hundred sixty-four replies were tabulated. Hiking headed the list with 96 voting in favor of this sport. Automobiling furnished suitable entertainment for 89 voters. Seventy-two members declared that swimming was their favorite condition. Tennis was a high favorite, claiming 69 devotees. Golf was next on the list with 64 members.

The survey did not insist that the faculty members made a definite choice between their hobbies if they had several, but allowed a range of at least 12 activities. Many of the teachers were versed in seasonal sports and had a well-rounded program throughout the year.

The tabulation for the 12 sports listed in the survey follows: Hiking, 96; automobiling 86; swimming 72; tennis 69; golf, 64; handball, 61; gardening 47; volley ball 34; horseback riding 29; basketball 23; skiing 20; aviation 5.

Other interests not included in the list are: Fishing, 12, dancing 10; hunting 4; baseball 3; boxing 2; chopping wood, 2; camping 2; track 1; fencing 1; archery 1; boating 1; tumbling 1; tennaquoits 1; sketching 1; ice skating 1.

Discoveries Mark Oklahoma, Home Of Early Peoples

OKLAHOMA CITY, Dec. 20.—UP—Relics of a race in northwestern Oklahoma believed to have antedated Roman and Greek culture have been placed in the exhibition halls of the Oklahoma Historical Society building here.

Traces of the ancient race, believed to have been "basket weavers," were found in caves along the walls of canyons in Cimarron county.

The caverns, cut into the sand rocks by winds of many centuries, furnished ideal homes for a people who made their garments and utensils from weeds.

Ashes, which indicated the people had learned how to make fire beds made of dried grass, bones of an extinct species of horse and of an unidentified mammal, small ears of corn and pumpkin seeds, stone corn grinders and small trinkets apparently used as ornaments, are included in the relics.

Excavation work was directed by Joseph B. Thoburn, curator of the historical society.

Several woven baskets, made from the coarse fibers of plants, were discovered. Pieces of shell, evidently used as ornaments, were found.

Thoburn also uncovered a pair of moccasins, which opened at the toes. They were made of leaf fiber.

Holdup Suspects To Be Returned

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 20.—Removal complaints intended to permit the taking of three suspects in the Nobel train robbery from Seattle jail for trial in the federal court here was signed in the northern city today, according to dispatches received here.

E. R. Sherwood, his wife, Bertha, and R. W. Carlton were the three who were expected to be on their way to this city within the next few days.

Sherwood has been identified as Edmund Smith who has been sought for the past six months to serve a sentence of six months in jail and pay a fine of $1000.

YOUTH TELLS OF SLAYING WAR HERO

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Dec. 20—UP—Richard H. Acklen, 22 year-o'd scion of a wealthy pioneer family, here, confessed tonight he killed J. Hadley Moseley, World War ehro, Friday, according to police.

Behind the confession, authorities said, lies a bizarre story of bootleg activities involving both men. One had encroached upon the domain of the other, it was said, following which came threats of death.

Moseley was a member of the 146th field artillery during the World War, winning the Congressional medal of honor and other decorations for bravery in France. Acklen is the son of Col. J. H. Acklen, prominent Nashville attorney.

Sterling Moseley, cousin of the slain man, told authorities a man later identified as Acklen entered the Moseley Motor company, of which J. Hadley Moseley was president, and asked for Moseley, who met the man with a friendly greeting.

Five shots in rapid succession followed.

The two men were said to have engaged in a fist fight Thursday night. Ack'en admitted to police he had had trouble with Moseley.

He and two police offiecers who arrested him revealed an alleged threat of Mosely to kill Acklen "before Saturday night."

Acklen told police today he had sold whiskey for Mosely a short time, but had gone into business for himself, even to the xentent of taking orders by telephone from former Mosely customers.

Big Bill To Run Again For Chicago's Mayor

CHICAGO, Dec. 20.—UP— Mayor William Hale Thompson assumed the role of Horatio at the Bridge in Chicago politics.

"The sword" he brandished was a pair of gilded scissors and the scene the dedication of a new span over the Chicago river. There he did verbal battle with his enemies, none of whom was present.

It was the second time in recent weeks that "Big Bill" had used bridge opening ceremonies to assail those who oppose him in his desire to be mayor a fourth time.

"Big Bill's" utterances today gained special significance from the fact that yesterday he formally announced his candidacy for re-election and thus threw down the gauntlet to factions discontented with his regime.

Bundled up in his collegiate raccoon overcoat, Thompson rode to the dedication in his big touring car, preceded by a truck load of police musicians playing "Happy Days Are Here Again."

As the theme song of the occasion, the tune was meant to convey glad tidings concerning "Big Bill's" promise to double Chicago's business by his $1,000,000 prize contest to stimulate buying here.

This campaign got under way several days ago when the mayor —"your mayor" as Thompson puts it—distributed the first tickets to the patrons of a loop lunch counter and announced that he personally would put up the million to cover prizes ranging from $50 to $100,000.

At the psychological moment and in the presence of a throng of adherents of the mayor he snipped the ribbon stretched across the entrance of the bridge.

Then he went to a platform made ready for the event and started thrusting at his political enemies who were reported at that moment to be busy elsewhere in an effort to agree upon a candidate to meet him in the mayoralty arena at the February primary election.

Stalin Beats Last Of Foes

BERLIN, Dec. 20.—UP— The removal of Alexei Rykov as president of the Council of People's Commissars of the Soviet Republics and his replacement by Viacheslas Molotoff, ally of Joseph Stalin, signified the complete eclipse of the Soviet "right opposition" and brought peace to the Communist party, at least temporarily, political circles here believed today.

The rout of the Stalin opposition was summarized as follows: Rykoff has been dismissed; Nicholas Bukharin, member of the central committee of the Communist party, has been reconciled to Stalin's policies; Michael Tosky, also a member of the central committee, is incapaciated as the result of an apoplectic stroke. Thus the opposition is left without leaders.

Pigs, Flags Used To Placate Volcano

HILO, Island of Hawaii, Dec. 20 —The red flags, "road signs for Madame Pele," have been staked out on the Island of Hawaii.

Mt. Kilauea is again threatening eruption, and the natives, believing that Pele, the fire goddess, is preparing to send forth the lava flow, have placed red flags along the mountain slopes to show the goddess which way to direct the molten streams, and incidentally to direct them away from their villages.

The official declaration of Dr. Thomas A. Jaggar Jr., director of the Hawaiian volcano observatory, that the present eruption is one of the regular cycles of activity that occurs at seven-year intervals and that there is no danger, has little effect upon the native populace, who prefer to cling to their age-old superstition.

Peele, think the natives, resides in the fiery pit of Hale Mau Mau, in the crater of Kilauea. Occasionally she comes down among the native villages in the guise of an old woman. If she is treated well, there will be no eruption, but should she meet with rebuff, then fiery hail will descend from the volcano to overwhelm her rebellious subjects.

Legend has it that in early days the natives believed Pele demanded sacrifice of a beautiful virgin maiden to appease her wrath. Upon this tale the famous American play, "The Bird of Paradise," is based.

Comparatively recently the island peoples offered pigs to the goddess, and it is said that the great eruption of Mauna Loa, which on April 18, 1926, destroyed the village of Hoopuloa and buried it under a molten sea of lava 50 feet deep, was caused by irreverent natives who stole the sacrificial pigs and ate them.

The Hawaiians formerly worshiped Pele, but of late, although superstitions connected with fire worship still persist, the race does not accord the former deity so high a place in this mythology. This "losing face" by the goddess dates from the dramatic incident when a certain Hawaiian queen, in the presence of her retinue and people, stood on the brink of the volcano's crater and defied the goddess to strike her down. Nothing happened, and the queen gained the prestige that the goddess lost.

But rumors that Pele is abroad are still heard in the native villages. Tourists, attracted by the beauties afforded by Kilouea in active eruption, when they ask about the molten, glass-like residue about the volcano's slopes, are told that it is "combings from Madame Pele's hair."

Ruling Endorsed

Charles A. Whitmore, state building and loan commissioner, endorsed Judge Cosgrave's ruling although he previously had insisted that a state receiver should be appointed.

The courtroom was thrown into an uproar today when a photographer took two pictures. Judge Cosgrave has had frequent troubles in attempting to prevent newspaper photographers from taking pictures of federal prisoners.

The photographer calmly took two pictures and was leaving when the bailiff warned that the photographer and his newspaper would be cited in contempt in case they published the pictures. He demanded the plates of the pictures. The photographer turned over two plates and later told newspapermen he had given the bailiff blanks.

Gold Shipment

Recently in Fresno, Judge Cosgrave cited a newspaper for pictures taken in a federal case there.

Investigation in the case today centered upon a shipment of gold bullion, valued at $25,000 which left the office of the Guaranty Building and Loan association December 8, consigned to the American Smelting and Refining company at Selby, Cal. Investigators said that witnesses had been found who saw Beesemyer assist in loading the gold into the express truck.

THE WOMAN OF IT

By Marguerite Mooers Marshall

Copyright Press Publishing Company (New York World) 1930

One Place Where There's No Unemployment

THERE'S so much talk, just now, of the hapless folk who want work and cannot find it
That women should be cheered to learn of ONE spot
Where there's always PLENTY to do—
As it was in the beginning, is now and ever shall be!—
Where unemployment is not a problem—anything but!

Women, as we said, perhaps SHOULD be cheered to hear about such a place—
Nevertheless, not all of them will smile broadly when we mention it by name—
This perpetually busy center of employment—
The Great American Home!
The home woman always has known how much she had to do—
Now, at last, the rest of the world can be, and is told,
In figures just given out by the United States Department of Agriculture.
Dr. Louise Stanley of the Bureau of Home Economics, says
That the urban wife and mother works forty-nine and one-fourth hours every week
In performing tasks about the home.

When the advance-report of the 1930 census stated
That 23,000,000 American women work at the occupation of home-making,
There were scoffers and cynics, who repeated "work?" with a question mark after it.
Who quoted the old line about the woman "with nothing to do but lie around the house all day."
Who prated of the modern housekeeper's "cinch,"
Particularly when she lives in a city
And has an iceless refrigerator, a vacuum cleaner, a can opener,
And a telephone wire leading directly to bakery and delicatessen store.
Women who actually keep house in New York know better—
Especially wives who are also the mothers of small children.
Now, Dr. Stanley's carefully prepared government statistics set forth
That the average city woman, who takes care of a husband and family,
Spends ten and one-fourth hours a week preparing meals,
Works five and one-fourth hours clearing them away,
Cleans house for seven and one-half hours,
Washes and irons for four and one-fourth hours,
Devotes one and one-fourth hours to mending,
Sews for four and one-half hours,
Toils for six and three-fourth hours at tasks specially pertaining to the care of the family,
Gives four and one-half hours to buying, budgeting, organizing and other details of management,
And consumes four and one-fourth hours in miscellaneous activities.
This schedule, it must seem to any conscientious wife and mother, is merely a minimum,
Since it doesn't include taking the children back and forth from school,
Nursing them when they are ill,
Writing family letters for the husband,
Entertaining his business friends,
Answering the telephone,
Dealing with uninvited callers, who are trying to sell things or to raise money for the unemployed,
And innumerable other commonplace, but incessant and time-consuming chores.
Oh, there are a tragic number of persons, including women, who are out of work—
But these new statistics from the Bureau of Home Economics, are merely our latest reminder
That, whatever the problems of the wife and mother,
Unemployment is not one of them!

THE STRONGER SEX

The modern American girl, we were saying the other day, is an improvement in many ways over the girl of the past. Now our optimism is confirmed by the departments of physical education at two women's colleges.

Dr. K. Frances Scott of Smith says that the girls there are getting taller, heavier and healthier. Two pounds more in weight and more than an inch in height, she states, have been added to the Smith College freshman since the college first began to take her measurements in 1902.

Up at Barnard Miss Agnes R. Wayman finds that the average girl in the freshman class is five feet four inches in height—the height of the average Smith freshman—and weighs 122.5 pounds—only a pound less than today's freshman in Northampton.

Truly and literally, woman is becoming, in one of this column's favorite phrases, "the stronger sex."

THREE CHEERS FOR ALICE!

The best story we've ever heard about Alice Longworth is the dispatch from Washington which tells how she set the fashion for going without corsets. J. Leonard Replogle, during the war, was implored for more steel by the corset manufacturers. Investigating, he found that they had been using 28,000 tons a year, enough to build two battleships.

He asked Mrs. Longworth, by telephone, if corset manufacturing was an essential industry. Slender and sensible Alice answered that it was not. The corset men didn't get their steel, because Alice steeled her heart against them—and American women were freed from the irksome necessity of "steeling" their bosoms in the fashionable stays of yesteryear. Even now these have staged no real comeback. The modern corset apologizes for its existence in every advertisement, and its "light, comfortable models" are still not worn by many women. Thanks, in the first instance, to the wife of the Speaker o the House.

Care of Oil Stoves

OIL heaters are perfectly safe if kept clean and properly handled. To clean the stove thoroughly remove the wick and place the flame spreader and all small attachments around the burner in a galvanized pail, cover with cold water, to every gallon of which add one heaping tablespoonful washing soda and boil about twenty minutes, then dry all the parts with old cloths. Put in a new wick or replace the old one if sufficiently long, fill container with oil and adjust the parts.

Never allow the oil to become completely exhausted. It is well to always fill the stove before lighting it and the charred wick should always be removed with paper. If this is done regularly it is not necessary to cut the wick and it will give a more even flame.

An oil stove that receives this care will not smoke nor give out a disagreeable odor when lighted. Placing the stove on a box about a foot above the floor will often prevent smoke and remove unpleasant odors.

When the Foyer Supplements the Dinette

By Alma Zaiss

Dear Miss Zaiss:

I am in need of advice about a living room that we also want to use as a dining room at certain times. There is a real nice kitchenette in this apartment, but I have never gotten used to this way of eating right next to the cooking. I do not feel comfortable to serve my main meals there. Perhaps I am old-fashioned, but cannot help it.

This living room is fairly large but there isn't so much wall space. We have just bought a large live-diner table, that is, it is good and long but not very wide. I have placed it in front of the windows but am not thoroughly pleased with it there. It seems so flat looking or something. We are very much disappointed in this piece and thought perhaps you could help us with a better arrangement for it, and also for the chairs.

On my floor plan the radiator seems to stick out in front of the windows, but it really is just a broad window ledge. I have put two of the dining chairs out in the hall and kept two in the living room. We should have six in order to entertain nicely (my furniture is nice and I do not want to drag in painted chairs from the dinette). I was thinking of getting two chairs with wood arms, as I remember you worked out a problem for a combination room once before and used them for both easy chairs and master chairs for dining. I also thought some of putting the live-dine table in the foyer which is seven feet wide at one point, but do not know if this would be proper.

I think my problem is mostly one of arrangement, but will be glad to have you suggest anything else that is wrong. The walls are cream with panels; carpet a good eggplant velvet all-over rug, and I have a Persian rug before the couch. Draperies are a rough silk in gold color; the couch is very dull gold or tan damask; one big chair is green tapestry in a sort of modern design; another chair in copper color with a little bit of green stripe. The seats of the dining room chairs are a nice plain green. The colors I think look very well all together, but of course I would like to know what you think, too. With many thanks for your help, I am

Dear Mrs. McB.:

I think your problem is a very interesting one, and I am glad you have written me about it. Your floor plan is very clear and I can see exactly what you mean.

Your first question is whether you should continue to use the dinette for dining or whether you should move the dining room into the living room. Of course, you know that the ideal arrangement is to have a separate dining room, but since you have not, you must decide whether you will be more comfortable to eat in the dinette or in the living room. If you feel that you will be more comfortable in the dinette, then you should not move the dining room into the living room. If you feel that you will be more comfortable in the living room, then you should move the dining room into the living room.

Your second question is whether you should move the radiator. If you feel that you will be more comfortable with the radiator moved, then you should move it. If you feel that you will be more comfortable with the radiator where it is, then you should not move it.

Your third question is whether you should move the chairs. If you feel that you will be more comfortable with the chairs moved, then you should move them. If you feel that you will be more comfortable with the chairs where they are, then you should not move them.

Your fourth question is whether you should move the table. If you feel that you will be more comfortable with the table moved, then you should move it. If you feel that you will be more comfortable with the table where it is, then you should not move it.

Your fifth question is whether you should move the couch. If you feel that you will be more comfortable with the couch moved, then you should move it. If you feel that you will be more comfortable with the couch where it is, then you should not move it.

Your sixth question is whether you should move the rug. If you feel that you will be more comfortable with the rug moved, then you should move it. If you feel that you will be more comfortable with the rug where it is, then you should not move it.

Your seventh question is whether you should move the lamps. If you feel that you will be more comfortable with the lamps moved, then you should move them. If you feel that you will be more comfortable with the lamps where they are, then you should not move them.

Your eighth question is whether you should move the pictures. If you feel that you will be more comfortable with the pictures moved, then you should move them. If you feel that you will be more comfortable with the pictures where they are, then you should not move them.

Your ninth question is whether you should move the curtains. If you feel that you will be more comfortable with the curtains moved, then you should move them. If you feel that you will be more comfortable with the curtains where they are, then you should not move them.

Your tenth question is whether you should move the plants. If you feel that you will be more comfortable with the plants moved, then you should move them. If you feel that you will be more comfortable with the plants where they are, then you should not move them.

Your eleventh question is whether you should move the mirror. If you feel that you will be more comfortable with the mirror moved, then you should move it. If you feel that you will be more comfortable with the mirror where it is, then you should not move it.

Your twelfth question is whether you should move the clock. If you feel that you will be more comfortable with the clock moved, then you should move it. If you feel that you will be more comfortable with the clock where it is, then you should not move it.

Your thirteenth question is whether you should move the vase. If you feel that you will be more comfortable with the vase moved, then you should move it. If you feel that you will be more comfortable with the vase where it is, then you should not move it.

Your fourteenth question is whether you should move the book. If you feel that you will be more comfortable with the book moved, then you should move it. If you feel that you will be more comfortable with the book where it is, then you should not move it.

Your fifteenth question is whether you should move the pillow. If you feel that you will be more comfortable with the pillow moved, then you should move it. If you feel that you will be more comfortable with the pillow where it is, then you should not move it.

DEATH THREATS IN BAKER CASE

dene Cox, 350 Dewey boulevard, San Francisco were the two nieces who filed the will suit through Attorney S. C. Wright.

The two women charge that Mrs. Baker destroyed the will of her brother in which they were named beneficiaries and that Lincoln U. Grant, Mrs. Baker's business manager knew of it and threatened to expose her, if she discharged him.

Grant Scored

The suit filed here also declared the Grant knew that Mrs. Baker gave rum parties in her apartment to which she invited men who were young enough to be her grandchildren, and that she was a narcotic addict.

The suit names as defendants Lincoln Grant, Arthur L. Miller of Los Angeles; Wells Fargo Bank and Union Trust company.

It is charged in the suit that because of Mrs. Baker's advanced age of 73 years she was "erratic and forgetful of those who had been kind to her, she lost her memory of both property and relatives."

Fight Seen

It was also charged that she had ordered a certain young man, not named, to be admitted to her apartment any time of the day or night.

While forces were preparing for the will fight, the police were strengthening their evidence against Liu for presentation befor Municipal Judge Lazarus when the case comes before him at 2 p. m. Monday.

Capt. Charles Dullea of the detective bureau re-asserted his belief that the evidence that will be produced Monday afternoon will be enough to cause Liu to be bound over to the superior court. This new evidence would not be revealed by the police, however.

Peter Mullins, assistant district attorney will represent the police department, Dullea said.

REDWOOD CITY, Dec. 20. — Cause of the death of William Carney, 55, San Mateo hod-carrier pulled from the mud near the San Mateo bridge yesterday, is expected to be determined when the coroner's jury reports.

Carney was pulled from the mud in a semi-conscious condition and rushed to Mills Memorial hospital in San Mateo where he died an hour later.

The previous morning Carney ran through the streets of San Mateo in a hysterical condition arousing residents by his actions. It was believed he had gone insane and he leaped from the bridge.

Judge Fails To Save Friend From Jail Term

BERKELEY, Dec. 20.—Judicial friendship didn't keep William Dealey, 25, San Francisco law student out of jail here when he was convicted of traveling 62 miles an hour on the Berkeley ferry pier in Police Judge Oliver Youngs' court here.

Dealey is spending five days in the city jail during which time he will study and make up some of the time he has lost while a normal member of the outside society, he declared.

A San Francisco judge was said to have communicated with Judge Youngs previous to the law student's appearance before him and declared he would consider it an obligation if Dealey were granted leniency in the trial.

The leniency shown consisted of the five-day sentence which will be up the middle of next week to allow Dealey to enjoy Christmas with his family in San Francisco.

Soviets Turn To Beans As Supply Of Meat Is Cut

MOSCOW, Dec. 20.—UP— The Soviet government has set out seriously to make its citizenry soya-bean-conscious. The undertaking is not due to any vegetarian zeal, but to the sharp lack of meat, cheese, milk and other products for which the soya bean offers substitutes.

A Soya Bean institute has been founded, with an important Communist, E. A. Bragin, at the head. Already it claims that 108 different palatable dishes can be prepared from the versatile bean.

Interest followed the peasant orgy of cattle-slaughtering which left the country meatless, cheeseless and milkless. The soya substitutes are described as so close that the unsuspecting restaurant patron cannot tell the difference between the imitation and the original.

Northern Caucasus and Turkestan are the principal areas where this bean of beans is grown and efforts are also being made to encourage its plantation in the sector of Siberia bordering on Manchuria. The soya acreage is being quickly enlarged.

COMMUNISTS STORM BANK

NEW YORK, Dec. 20.—UP—Led by alleged communist agitators, a crowd of depositors of the suspended Bank of the United States stormed the bank's branch at Freeman street and Southern boulevard, the Bronx, today, demanding payment. Fifty police dispersed the mob.

The attempt to enter the bank started after police had broken up an attempt to hold a meeting near the branch office. About 30 men and women, with banners bearing such slogans as "We Want Our Money" and "They Robbed The Poor" assembled across the street after the branch closed at noon. When asked if they had a permit, they replied that they were communists and needed none.

Some one shouted: "Let's rush the bank!" and the group bore down on eight patrolmen at the door. Reserves were called and the crowd of 3000 which had gathered during the excitement was dispersed.

The bank had been open durinv the morning receiving application for loans with deposits as security.

Two women and four men were arrested after riot on charges of disorderly conduct.

Major's Case Given To Jury

KANSAS CITY, Kan., Dec. 20.—UP—The case of Maj. Charles A. Shepard, army surgeon charged with murdering his wife, Mrs. Zenana McCoskey Shepard, was given to a federal court jury here today.

Judge Arthur J. Hopkins completed his instructions and committed the major's fate to the 12 Kansas farmers and tradesmen at 2:58 p. m.

At 4:20 p. m. the jury asked for a copy of the judge's instructions, which was delivered to it after defense and government attorneys agreed they would raise no objection to the procedure.

Judge Hopkins left for his home ten minutes later, informnig a court bailiff he would be available for immediate call in case of a verdict.

Departure of the judge, however, failed to reduce the crowd of spectators materially. Many who had been there since early morning remained in their seats, believing a verdict would be reached shortly.

Major Shepard talked at intervals with his attorneys, who remained at his side. He seemed in a cheerful frame of mind.

Theft Suspect In East Captured

TOLEDO, Ohio, Dec. 20.—UP—R. A. Boyd, 37, of Philadelphia, who was said by Charles Troyano, investigator for the American Express company, to be the man who stole a suit case containing express company checks in Omaha, Neb., several months ago, was under arrest here today.

Troyano trailed Boyd here and had him arrested. Boyd was said to have forged and cashed $400 worth of the checks. The suit case was said to have been taken from J. N. Johnson of Denver, Colo., on a train between Omaha and Denver.

Boyd, also known as Harry Davis and Richard Blanchard, admitted that he escaped from the Leavenworth, Kansas penitentiary more than a year ago, police said.

AD CAMPAIGN TO AID DRY LAW SEEN

CHICAGO, Dec. 20. —UP— The business proposition of re-selling prohibition to the American public by spending millions of dollars for full page newspaper advertising, intended to dry up wet sentiment, engrossed the attention today of the American Business Men's Prohibition foundation.

This organization, which numbers among its own advisors 56 prominent capitalists, educators, industrialists and civic leaders, expects to have $3,000,000 by the end of next year and an additional $7,000,000 before 1934.

"During 1931, the initial goal of the foundation is to reach 20,000,000 homes in America with full page messages in the daily press," according to Charles R. Jones, chairman of the Non-profit corporation which received its charter last January.

"These advertisements will present compactly the facts regarding national prohibition, its benefits to industry and the public welfare devoid of passion or fanaticism and based upon the most careful and comprehensive research.

"The foundations advertising already has appeared in newspapers in Boston, Pittsburgh, Rochester, and other cities, making widely known the slogan, 'Let's have the truth about prohibition,' which is to run through the entire series."

The advertising program contemplates, Jones said, the discussion of such subjects as "crime and prohibition, the economic results of prohibition, prohibition and our tax burden. What has prohibition to do with hard times, college drinking, the real truth about it."

Are Endorsed

"The foundation program has already received the endorsement of such men as Harry Chandler, publisher of the Los Angeles Times; W. C. Cowles, publisher of the Spokane, Washington Spokesman-Review, and Frank E. Gannett, publisher of the Rochester Democrat-Chronicle and head of the Gannett chain of newspapers," Jones said.

Funds required to carry out the program are being raised by a nation-wide campaign.

The foundation was organized, Jones explained, because of the "ten year increasing flood of anti-prohibition propaganda which has, during recent months, almost engulfed every channel of publicity in America, without adequate challenge on the part of those who supported the eighteenth amendment and believe its beneficial results have been too largely overlooked."

He described the organization as non-political, non-sectarian, non-sectional, and entirely independent of but not competing with any other prohibition organization."

2000 Members

The present membership of the foundation is made up of more than 2,000 business men in 46 states. Among those serving on its advisory council are James C. Penney, chain store magnate; Louis J. Taber, master of the national Grange; A. A. Stagg, football coach at the University of Chicago; Zane Grey and Zona Gale, authors; Dr. William Lowe Bryant, president of Indiana University; S. S. McClure, publisher Henry M. Leland, Detroit capitalist; Dr. Chasles O. Selecman, president of Southern Methodist University; Andrew B. Crichton, mining engineer; Mary E. Wooley, president of Mount Holyoke college.

Directors of the foundation, besides Jones, include William S. Bennett, vice president of the Hines Lumber company; and P. H. Callahan, president of the Louiseville Varnish Co., of Louiseville, Ky.

which the administration objected. Action came despite senate protests terming the measures "inadequate and tragic disappointments."

Its emergency work completed, the house was ready to adjourn for the holidays, but the senate became involved in debate over power comission appointments and was still wrangling at 5 p. m.

There was no formal ceremony at the White House when the president signed the two bills. Two of his secretaries, Lawrence Richey and Walter Newton, were in the office with him as well as newspapermen and photographers.

Gain Shown In Christmas Club

An increase of more than 50 per cent in membership in the Christmas club of the Mechanics bank was reported by banking officials yesterday.

With the start of the new 1931 club, it was announced yesterday that 1262 members have been enrolled to date, with a potential value of $99,500. Last year at Dec. 20 there were 830 enrolled, with a potential value of $66,000.

When the club was closed last year it showed a ultimate total of $120,000.

It is believed when the club is closed this year it will represent the sum of $180,000 to be distributed next Christmas.

Norma Edward, the five year old sister of the girl slightly injured in the same crash, was at the family home at 618 Nineteenth street.

E. J. Turpin, driver of the truck on which the girls were riding was being held at the Richmond city jail last night following his failure to provide $5000 bail for his release pending his pleading on a drunk while driving charge.

Turpin appeared before Justice of the Peace A. A. Alstrom yesterday for preliminary examination. His address is 1255 San Pablo avenue, El Cerrito.

Leo E. Gengler, 337 Richmond street, El Cerrito was driver of the other automobile which figured in the crash. The accident happened at the corner of Nineteenth and Cutting boulevard.

AIR PROGRAM SPONSORED BY VETS

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Dec. 20.—UP—A definite program designed to stimulate the development of aeronautics will be sponsored by the Veterans of Foreign Wars of the U. S. during the coming year, according to action taken at a recent meeting of the V. F. W. held at national headquarters here.

"We have two main objectives in the creation of this program," Paul C. Wolman, Baltimore, Md., national comamnder of the Veterans of Foreign Wars points out.

"In every state we hope eventually to sponsor 'safety in aviation' programs, with appropriate recognition for the pilot who makes the greatest contribution to this phase of aeronautics during the year.

"We also appreciate full well that some day the aeronautic resources of the nation will constitute a distinct and definite part of our national defense. This country will need all the experienced pilots and aviation experts it can acquire should a national emergency arise. By developing commercial aviation possibilities in times of peace we are simultaneously equipping the nation with a trained air force ready to act at a moment's notice in time of war."

Tentative plans discussed by the national council of administration contemplate the marking of air trails throughout the country. Efforts will be made to secure the cooperation of railroads with permission to have painted on the roofs of railroad stations the name of the town or city in letters easily read from the air. Local V. F. W. posts will be urged to make arrangements for the painting of these signs.

Pending adoption of actual plans, Comamnder-in-Chief Wolman was authorized to appoint a committee of nationally known aviation experts who will formulate a definite program designed to coordinate the efforts individual units of the Veterans of Foreign Wars make throughout the country.
